Ruth & Michael Paine 11/13/64.
He came back from Mexico evening toward the end of the visit.

They also have had nothing, they have O in Y.O. in the shelves.

Their task in believing the WR is their believing for the commission that they must why were we need they could not possibly be ~~wrong~~ wrong! Hardly can the collective approach of the press of the intellectual press.

She is very sad, thin, looks tired, with worry lips & can talk so rapid he says. She said she was glad it go fast at 9:00 p.m.!, She kept on talking about it but never did.

Their new home is expressing expression. Paine estimates of its cost $75,000. He says their other home burned up.

Michael Jr. is sad & thin, with his eyes seeming unusually large. He is shy in front of us, a, parents he is a man, dressed in leather, very small but to be such a man. The back of his neck almost scraped.

And Ryan's to believe R is both a nymphs. & a/de loved. Perm says Brenna is a nymph, with two men supplied, legend & the husband, & satisfy her. He says Ryan's appearance, now of homesick, had signed letters with Brenna to explain as part of his "illness". Perth has an eddy & a strange look, but her appearance does not suggest homosexuality.

Then Michael began to look at Brenna Perry. O how he did love her & in so doing put his arm around her, ~~touch~~ briefly.

They are a strange-looking pair.
The furniture in here is not good. The tea green-covered Queen Anne type chairs would have, as it would easily be be with children. It was well-frayed.

There is a large, raised brick fireplace in the living room. A log was going on it when he entered. I did not look closely at it. But with no other loop visible, more stacked on a needle than knotted, and no ashes, that I could see, I now wonder if it is a gag log. If it is, I have a cat I'm at the perfect cigarette-butts into it.

The Pawns, I think, do have questions I am unwilling to put to a computer then. They were in the middle of great works & pictured they have no interest in Arabia, for which their labors this night be rewarded, but not for this alert cats.

I asked Dawn to let me know if they received any mail that might be important with this activity as a federal agent.
